NEW SAIL BOATS

The camps have just purchased five new Cape Cod Nimblets which will replace the five which have been used for the past three years. The old boats were in excellent condition, considering the use they have had, but the new boats have many improvements which will help the Sailing Unit. The old boats were used to introduce sailing and, of course, have been misused to some extent by beginners. Far better care will be taken of the new boats in the hands of experienced sailors and this new equipment should be a great incentive to the sailing enthusiasts.

TIMANOUS NEWS

Skipper and Lee seem to have been seeing a lot of camp people lately. Cubby Sniveley's family had dinner with them recently in Deerfield.

Skipper and George Gaston went to see Super at the University of Vermont, and liked Bill Bedford, a friend of Super's, so much that they asked him to be a counselor at Timanous this summer. He is a Phi Delta Theta at Vermont.

Tommy Ragle had bronchitis this winter, and went to Florida to recuperate.

Sonny Strohm was quarantined for the measles during Easter vacation, but at the last report hadn't come down with them yet.

SEBAGO WOHELO NEWS

Halsey and Dottie saw a great many camp girls and lots of alumnae during their Easter trip and heard about still more.

Prissie Green, Marge Howard and Jean Latham went to the Columbia Scholastic Press convention in New York on March tenth.

Micky Ashby worked in the North Shop at Lord and Taylor's in New York City in January, during part of her six weeks' vacation from Bennington. She plans to go to California by boat this summer, taking a Ford along, and come back by car through the north.

Jan Stevens played basketball for the Girls' Academy in Albany this winter.

Molly Boyden spent Easter vacation in New York and New Jersey visiting Wondie and Ann Howard.

Helen Halle's father's new dog, Flornell

GRANDCHILDREN AT CAMP

Every year the list of second generation campers at camp increases. These sons and daughters of former campers come to Timanous and Wohelo with a tradition behind them which makes them fit into camp completely and at once. This year Dottie and Halsey are proud to have:

Campers	Children of
Mary Carol Ackerman	Beatrice Marion
Barbara and Mariella Boyden	Bob and Beebe Boyden
Nadine Dyer	Dorothy Coburn
Houston Evans	Kathryn Field
Mary and Susannah Freeman	Betty Bull
Katherine Gulick	Halsey and Dottie
Lyman and Morton Hull	Dolly Walker
Sally May	Marguerite Paige
Charlotte and June Robinson	Louise Gulick
Patty Wagner	Mary Blough

LITTLE WOHELO NEWS

Bob and Beebe attended almost all of the camp reunions. They went to New York, Boston and Providence, and saw a great many little Woheloites.

Mariella, not satisfied with having the whooping cough, fell on roller skates and broke her arm. She's recovering from both now.

Peggy Drummond was married on April 17th to John F. Marsellus, of Syracuse. They will live at 628 Scoville Ave., Syracuse, and what will Little Wohelo do for a counselor to take Peggy's place?

Sally Ann West is president of her home room at Bigelow Junior High in Newton.

Baba Boyden interviewed Halsey when her class was assigned an interview for English. They discussed the Teacher's Oath at great length.

Joan Ferris had her appendix out in November, but looks in the pink of health now.

Fran Green writes that she finally caught up with some good skiing in March.

Jean Adams went on a cruise to Havana, Haiti and Jamaica during Easter vacation.

Lila Latham rides at the Armory in Albany.

NEW CANOES FOR LITTLE WOHELO

Not to be outdone by the older girls, four new canoes have been purchased for Little Wohelo. The construction is identical to the regular models but they are much smaller. Two of them are only eleven feet long and two are thirteen feet long. These canoes are wide and safe but are very light and can be paddled with ease by even the youngest campers. They weigh only fifty pounds so they can readily be taken out of the water by the girls and placed on the new racks which are being built for them.

PHYSICAL FITNESS PROGRAM

During the past few years a series of physical fitness tests have been devised which can be used with a surprising degree of accuracy. Under the direction of Professor Frederick Rogers of Boston University these tests have been given for a number of years in schools near Boston, and in many schools they have become a regular part of the Physical Training Departments. Never before has there been an adequate testing device which would give a definite rating as to physical gains and declines.

One of Professor Rogers' trained pupils, Mr. Fred Nichols, will give these tests at the start of the summer and each two weeks as the summer progresses. They are very simple and only take six minutes for each individual. It is going to give us some valuable data in regard to the health value of our various programs. Few camps have different specialized activities conducted through the summer under the same general physical surroundings. The results are going to tell us if the more strenuous programs bring greater physical improvement than the lighter activities.

The tests should prove valuable for the individual. They will quickly bring to light declines, thus making it possible for the camp to arrange corrective measures before the summer is over. The tests are fun to take and undoubtedly new songs will arise to Mr. Nichols and his program.

SLEEPING BAGS

For years the camps have listed ponchos on the outfit blank and these have been used with only fair success on camping trips. At best they are only makeshift devices and unless the greatest care is taken, the blankets are apt to get soaked during a moderate rain.

To meet this condition, sleeping bags are being recommended: not any old sleeping bag but the official sleeping bag which has been designed by the camp. The bag is waterproof on the bottom, preventing any water from soaking through from the damp ground, and they are water-repellent on top, which allows the covering to breath air but at the same time sheds water. They require no blankets, as they are lined with a padding of kapok. Aside from all their other advantages, these bags are buoyant in water and will hold up more weight than three or four normal life preservers.

It is not necessary for old campers to buy the sleeping bags but all new campers are urged to have them. The cost is $6.50 and the bags will be ordered through the camp from the wholesaler and delivered at camp. This is only $2.00 more than the ponchos and they should give a lifetime of service. Orders must be placed with the camp thirty days before camp opens.

Wohelo Alumnae News

Katharine Alden (Spooks) broke her record of arriving an hour early at the Boston reunion by missing the reunion entirely this year, due to a trip to Washington. Mary Lois Paschal (Mrs. Donald Davis), who usually arrives with her, never consequently found out that there was a reunion until weeks later, showing how well she reads her WOHELO BIRD. Spooks (like a good Rotarian) made up the delinquency by reporting for the Providence reunion, but Mary Lois is still delinquent.

Fanniebelle Allen attended the preview of lithographs by Edith Ackley's husband, Stow Wengenroth, at the Grand Central Galleries. Fanniebelle owns several of his prints.

Anne Andrews (Mrs. Herve Allen) is in Oxford, Maryland, where they have a place.

Maira Archbold gave a party at the Pierre for her brother and his fiancée, and Peyton Kirk and her fiancé.

Jane Auerbach is studying at New College, Columbia University.

Peggy (Shrimp) Austin was on the Varsity Basketball team at Vassar this winter.

Jean Baker is doing sculpture in New York now and working for a concern which makes exhibits for the World's Fair. In her spare time, she poses for a photographer.

Dora Best is at Russell Sage College in Troy.

Kathryn Billig (Mrs. Harlin V. Pittenger) is Regent of the Morrison, Ill., Chapter of the D. A. R. She and her husband are planning a house. Their lot is on the edge of town on the top of a hill, with a beautiful view and lovely trees.

Bettina Blanding is at college in Geneva, Switzerland.

Isabel Boyd (Mrs. Proudfit) had an article, "Mixed Doubles," in the February, 1937, issue of Creative.

Don Bowman has acquired a boat, which takes all of his spare time.

Margaret Bradshaw, "Embers" (Mrs. Harold McGee), gave a talk recently and kindled fire with the rubbing sticks at a Camp Fire Jubilee meeting in Akron, Ohio.

Elizabeth Brooks (Brooksie) is working with hospital insurance for working men in New Haven.

Betty Bull (Mrs. William W. K. Freeman) had her tonsils removed while she was visiting her family in Florida.

Margaret Case (Mrs. Margaret Case Hariman) is writing for the New Yorker, the Reader's Digest, Harper's and Vogue. She had a recent two installment article on Fanny Holtzman in the January 31 and February 6 issues of the New Yorker, and a long article on "Dressing on $1,000 a Year" in the January 15th Vogue. The article in Vogue will especially interest those of you who knew Margaret at camp because it contains an excellent photograph of her and is written in a delightful and personal vein. The second paragraph won us completely, and we'd quote it for you if we weren't afraid Vogue would sue us as a rival publication (Circulation 2,000. Salaries none). As it is, we'll simply advise you to buy the January 15th Vogue. (adv.)

Rosalind Cassidy is living in New York, where she is President of the National Association of Directors of Physical Education for College Women. After August first she will be at Mills College again. She attended the national convention of the Camp Directors' Association in Detroit in February.

Marie Christopher went on a ten-day cruise to the West Indies recently.

Betty Cluff is working at Altman's in New York City.

Frannie Cooper (Mrs. F. J. Ludwick) won first prize for her weaving in the handicraft exhibit in a Regional Conference of the Junior League.

Muriel Cox has been assistant director of the Chamberlain School in Boston since 1929. From 1929 to 1934 she also trained the salespeople in Filene's in color, design and fashion, and since 1933 has been teaching costume design at the Mass. School of Art. For the past seven summers she has taught at Hampton Institute, but this summer goes to Vassar, where she will teach a course on "The House and Its Furnishings; Clothes" at the Vassar Summer Institute of Euthenics.

Aileen Davis, who has been lost by this office for lo these many years, turned up at the Leisure Time Show in Boston, and we are delighted to report on her. She has taught weaving at Aloha, and crafts at the Sargent Camp, and goes this summer to teach crafts at Quinbeck. Winters she teaches at the Brimmer School in Boston. Aileen traces her first enthusiasm in crafts back to the days when she learned to weave under Spooks.

Dub Davis took skiing lessons from Rybiska, of Arlberg, at Christmas. This spring she is busy with canoeing classes and a log cabin for the outing club at Sweet Briar College.

Edith Day is studying art in New York, and living at home.

Laura Day (Mrs. James Barrett) has been judging a good many horse shows in New York and Tuxedo.

Edith Diefendorf (Mrs. Roland B. Pond) and her husband spent their honeymoon in Bermuda. They will live at 1416 James St., Syracuse, after their return.

Peggy Dowst is writing for pulp publications, particularly Love Story Magazine.

Alice Durston is working for the New York Telephone Company in Syracuse. She recently returned from a trip to Key West.

Bobby Eden's picture was in the Sunday Herald Tribune on March 14th. She has spent most of the winter at the family home in Florida.

Betty Lee Edwards is majoring in English at Syracuse University. She takes part of her work in journalism and part in radio.

Bobby Edwards (whom we got hopelessly wrong in the last issue) is taking music at Syracuse University.

Frances Edwards is a senior at Goodyear-Burlingame.

Glad Edwards is working at Schrafft's in Syracuse.

Etta A. Etheridge (Ridgie) recently took a trip to Bermuda.

Ollie Faust went out to Danville, Ill., for a wedding during Easter vacation.

Sarah Fisher, "Splashy" (Mrs. Charles V. Eichlin), spent the winter at Hollywood, Florida, where they spent most of the time surf fishing.

Jean Gibson (Mrs. Paul Eakin) has been doing book reviews for the Cleveland Wellesley Club and other organizations.

"Mother B" Gleason spent the winter in St. Petersburg, Florida.

Ethel Gulick (Mrs. John Barrow) sent Dottie and Halsey some tea sugars decorated by the candy kitchen at Berea College. They had primitive women on them, and all sorts of typical Wohelo maidens taken from the camp letterheads. Dottie and Halsey were sorry they hadn't known about them in time for the camp teas. Maybe next year.

Louise Gulick (Mrs. H. E. Robinson) is at Migis Lodge in South Casco. Louise's broadcast over Station WJZ on March 15th was excellent. She gave the background for some of the ideas which Timanus and Hiiteni used in founding the Camp Fire Girls.

Jean Halladay took the part of Gladys Cady in "Begger on Horseback," presented by Beaver Country Day School and the Harvard Dramatic Club on February 12th.

Virginia Harris is living at Butler Hall, 88 Morningside Drive, New York City.

Elizabeth Head (Mrs. Ferdinand Fetter) writes under the name of Hannah Lees. A recent article of hers, "Take a Look Inside," was condensed from Colliers for the January Readers' Digest.

Happy Hilts worked in Syracuse last summer and in Boston and New York this fall, demonstrating a machine for the hard-hearing to ear specialists.

Martha Hodgson (Mrs. Rutherford L. Ellis) and her children spent some time in Florida this winter, and saw Betty Bull there.

Peggy Holmes (Mrs. James Rodgers) went to Bushie's exhibition of silk murals with Peggy Dowst. She says, "They are perfectly lovely, and I was especially taken with one which showed the skyline of New York from Central Park, all done in greens and blues and turquoises."

Betty Huestis spent over three months in Florida this winter, and came back as brown as the sand. She entertained the guests of her hotel three times with "Esgo" and her other marionettes, and was invited to take them on a tour of the middle west and Canada.

Eunice Jamison (Mrs. John B. Fox) and her husband have a summer cottage at Andover, Maine, which she says is just about the size of one Lewa cabin.

Dodo Kincaid spent the winter at Sarasota, Florida.

Jane Kincaid is attending Syracuse University.

Sally Knapp is at the Beaver Country Day School in Boston.

Elizabeth Knowland is teaching French and English in the Goodyear-Burlingame School in Syracuse.

Eleanor Larned is at Syracuse University. Bobby Lewis is working in an architect's office in Syracuse.

Carol Lewis is at the Knox School, where she won first prize in their horse show.

Eugenie Lewis won honorable mention for her weaving in the Junior League Regional Conference recently.

Shirley Lowenhaupt plans to be married on May 15th at St. Cassian's Church in Montclair. Her fiancé, Franklin J. Koehler, is a graduate of Bordentown Military Institute. Shirley is studying music at the David Mannes School in New York City and is giving a piano recital this month in New York.

Punch Luby is a senior at Smith this year.

Jane Major spent spring vacation at Miami Beach, Florida, where she fished and acquired a sunburn.

Margaret Metzger (Mrs. John Vandercook), who died last year, was honored by a memorial exhibition of her sculpture, at the Argent Galleries in New York, early this year. To quote from the Wellesley Magazine, "She studied sculpture for a year in Paris with Aristide Roussaud, associate of Rodin. After her marriage in 1923, to John Vandercook, the well-known writer, began ten years of wandering and exploration in little known countries of the globe. During their travels, in sixty-five countries, in all, Margaret's work in sculpture was carried on in such intervals as shifting conditions afforded. The twenty-five sculptures exhibited were of several classes—portraits, things in which fancy had the upper hand, and studies of native types. Some of the pieces were: 'Turtle Girl,' 'Drummer,' bas relief of 'Grasslands Women,' 'Fijian Hillman,' and portraits of John Vandercook, Lester Cohen and Virginia Armistead."

Roselle Montgomery is making a name for herself as an artist. She is painting a portrait of Helen Crossley's younger sister at present.

Peggy Neal (Mrs. W. S. Wilson) and her engineer husband are living in a trailer in Bakersfield, California. It seemed the only solution for them as they had moved every two or three months since they were married.

Frederick Clifton Packard, Jr. (Pack), is Assistant Professor of Public Speaking at Harvard.

Pat Parkhurst was in the cast of "Captain Applejack," a play put on by students of the Beaver Country Day School and the Rivers School, on March 12th.

Tommy Pierce returned from Mexico in time to get in a ski pack trip cross country in the Laurentian Mountains.

Molly Radford (Mrs. H. C. Martin) married a criminal investigator, who has the reputation for getting his man no matter what. They are building a small house south of Santa Fe on eighty acres of land which they own. She writes, "Aside from the four-room house, we're building a store-room (some of Bill's clients pay him in kind, and he's apt to come home with a lamb or half a beef or something) and a swimming pool!"

Maryl Riter and her entire family are going to England for the Coronation.

Mary and Frances Robinson have just been caught up with again by the camp office. Mary was married in 1930 to the Rev. George Gordon Cameron of Scotland, and lives at 16 Bananie Road, Glasgow W. 1. Her husband is pastor of Kent Road Church in Glasgow. They have three children. Frances has just resigned the Directorship of Religious Education in a Presbyterian Church in Titusville, Pa., and has returned to New York to do some further studying.

Jan Salisbury was one of the girls in charge of the marionette show at the Wheeler School Spring Fête in Providence.

Sumie Seo (Mrs. Hajima Mishima) wrote an article which was published in the December issue of Asia Magazine.

Johnny Shute's mother died recently. All the Woheloites who met Mrs. Shute during the short time she stayed after camp two years ago enjoyed knowing her tremendously and can imagine what this loss means to Johnny and Mr. Shute.

Ginny Smiley (Mrs. Andrew Westhead) and her husband are running Jug End Barn in Great Barrington, which was cited by the February sixth New Yorker as one of the two best places for skiers to stay in the Berkshires.

Buster Smith and Smitty had two alligators given to them when they were at school. The school didn't care for them, and when last seen the alligators were ornamenting the Smiths' bathroom in Syracuse.

Libby Smith is president of Main Hall at Vassar. She bobbed her hair during Easter vacation and says that she now looks like a child of ten instead of a near senior.

Muggins Smith is going to business school in Syracuse.

Nanette Smith goes to the Goodyear-Burlingame School in Syracuse.

Flora Agnes Sporborg spent the winter in Beaufort, N. C.

Barbara and Emily Stone are at Vassar.

Marion and Judy Thompson are students at Syracuse University.

Anne Van Duyn is at Pine Manor in Wellesley.

Babs Van Duyn was Christmas secretary for the Frontier nursing service in Kentucky. She is back in Syracuse now.

Connie Van Duyn won second prize for her marionettes in the recent regional conference of Junior Leagues in Poughkeepsie.

Dorothy Veeder (Mrs. Charles E. Tilton) married a man who was in college at Swarthmore when Dottie Gulick was there. Dottie had an awfully nice reminiscent letter from her recently. Dorothy Veeder was the youngest girl in Little Wohelo when she first came, and she says, "Many a day Hiiteni would drive over and take me to spend a day among the 'big girls.' When they launched their war canoes I was in them, at their councils I had a place of honor. In fact I was treated so well I am quite sure I became a little conceited!"

Elizabeth Warner must have caught the mumps from one of her patients, for she writes that she was a patient in the Isolation ward this winter with that dread disease.

Frances Weaver is at Wheaton College in Norton, Mass.

Jane Wheaton visited Westover for the Alumnae Week-end.

Reba White is at the Ward Belmont School in Nashville, Tennessee, and hopes to take one of the Syracuse University tours to Europe this summer with Bobby Haight. She has moved from Pleasantville, N. Y., to 3735 R. St., N. W., Washington, D. C.

Tink Whittemore (Mrs. C. H. Upson, Jr.) and her family spent the winter at their villa at Mountain Lake, Florida.

Austin Wilcox is back at home in Tryon, N. C.

Frannie Woodward and her mother spent last summer in Belgium.

Beatrice Wose was judge of the Associated Artists of Syracuse. She teaches art.

Carolyn Wose is working in Harrisburg, doing social service work connected with her postgraduate work at Smith.

WOHELO CHAIRS

To date over two hundred tiny hand-made chairs have been sent out to the first children of former campers. Halsey and Dottie continually marvel at the number of their camp "grandchildren." The present supply of chairs has been exhausted, but more are coming soon.

It's impossible to keep track of all the children who should have Wohelo chairs. If you know of some first children of former campers who haven't chairs, will you write and let Halsey and Dottie know?

Spicipiece, is still getting a lot of publicity. There is a good picture of it in the March Junior League Magazine.

Harriet Dana's picture was in a recent issue of the Phoenix, the Swarthmore College paper.

Mary Lou Sherwood is at the Lincoln School in Providence this winter.

Frickie Lyon was one of the people in charge of the Marionette Show at the Wheeler School Spring Fête.

Louise Valentine's class defeated all the other classes in basketball and won the class basketball cup. Louise played in the game against the juniors and seniors.

Dorie Smith graduated from the Fairfield School in Boston recently.

"C. C." Christopher and her mother and sister took a ten days' cruise to the West Indies during Easter vacation.

Janet Meade spent Easter vacation in Georgia with her family.

Eleanor Murphy visited Ann Howard at Christman.

Mother Merrill spent a few days in New York with Dottie and Halsey at the time of the New York reunion.

Ernie Pear visited Proctor recently and drove up to camp with Halsey to look over a new nine-foot rowboat for Little Wohelo.

Roland Wells is beginning to prepare for college board exams. He plans to enter Harvard in the fall.

Of the new girls coming to Sebago Wohelo this summer, Halsey and Dottie are especially thrilled over Mary Carol Ackerman, whose mother, Beatrice Marion, was a camper in 1911 and 1912. Mary Carol is entered for the sailing unit.

There are lots of new campers, to date, and there will be many more before this news letter goes to press, but we have to stop sometime. From Montclair, we have Anne Beal, Helen Kingsley, Marian Moses, Betty Lou Schouler and Ellen Tonnele, all friends of the Ostgrens. Ellen Thayer Duncan comes from Scarsdale, and many of you met her at the New York tea. Jane Godley and Ann Winn come from Albany and are friends of the Albany campers. Frances Reilly, a friend of Jean McGay, comes from Lowell, and was at the Boston tea, as was Dorothy Garritt, of West Newton. Louise MacColl comes from Providence and is a friend of the Rockwell twins. Caroline Sherwood, whom all of you have met at camp, is Mary Lou's sister. Helen B. Grumman comes from New Haven. Long distance winners are Eleanor Chamberlain Hewins, cousin of Harriet and Mary Ellen Chamberlain, of Hampton, Va., Dania Merrill of Chicago, Ill., and Priscilla Willard of Tampa, Fla., a friend of Margie Hodgson's.

LOST ADDRESSES

Thanks to the response of as many alumnae, the camp office now has the addresses of fifteen more "lost campers" than they had before the last news letter. Encouraged by this success, we print a selected list of particularly clueless ex-campers. Can you help us with these?

Timanous News

Jimmy Godwin and his father are making over the cellar of their home for a recreation room.

Dave Brown and his family went to Nassau during Easter vacation, and got back just in time for the Boston reunion. Dave was really Brown after all that sun, and looked just as he did after a summer at camp.

Howie Larkin has been in Florida for his vacation.

Windy Brereton has grown yards and yards this winter, and promises not to be recognizable.

Speck Green was a perfect host at the Albany reunion, which incidentally had quite a Timanous representation, with Cubby Sniveley, Lindsay Stevens and Cliff Nickles.

Bud Dana has been a consistent winner of the diving in all the meets of the undefeated Harvard Freshman swimming team this winter.

Art Bosworth is captain of the Exeter swimming team. He has been a point winner in many events in his team's meets.

George Gaston has been elected captain of the 1937 Varsity Soccer Team at Springfield.

Super is president of Key and Serpent, honorary Junior society at Vermont. Over the Washington's Birthday week-end he helped put over the college's annual Cake Walk.

Bob Walker has been taking part in debating at Taft School this winter.

Cliff Nickle played football at Mohawk Day School in Schenectady this fall.

Tommy Findley got to the Boston reunion by an accident. Halsey left his projector for the movies in Andover, and had to call up and ask Tommy to bring it down.

All the Timanous boys will be interested in knowing something about some of the new boys who are coming to camp this summer. We're especially proud of those whose mothers were once campers at Wohelo. Houston V. Evans, Jr., of Short Hills, N. J., is the son of Kay Field, who was at camp from 1919 to 1922. The two Hull boys, Lyman

Walker and Morton Denison II, are the sons of Dolly Walker, who was at Wohelo in 1917.

Then there are the friends of present campers—John Pierce Durfee II of Waterbury and Allen and Corydon Sperry of Middlebury, friends of Howie Larkin; William Morgan Noyes and Henry Symons of Montclair, friends of Sonny Stroh; and George Allen Huggins of Dover, N. H., a friend of Dave Brown's. William King of Peabody, Mass., comes to camp through Dr. Ragle.

And we have three Southerners this summer, so prepare to acquire a Southern accent. Charles and David Nichols are coming from Anderson, S. C., and Frank Willard, Jr., comes all the way from Tampa, Fla.

CAMP FIRE'S SILVER JUBILEE

Throughout the year the Camp Fire Girls are celebrating their Silver Jubilee. All over the country girls are hearing again of how Hiiteni and Timanous founded the Camp Fire Girls at Sebago Wohelo, and worked out many of the ideals which later became nation-wide.

Although we no longer have a Camp Fire group at camp, we are glad to hear of many of the old campers who are participating in the Jubilee Celebration. "Embers" was a guest speaker at the Akron, Ohio, celebration. Louise Gulick Robinson attended the New York one and later spoke over the radio. Dottie and Halsey attended the Boston Birthday Revue. Hiiteni's ceremonial costume was worn in the pageant at Boston by Miss Charlotte Millett of Camp Hitinowa, the Camp Fire Camp named after Hiiteni and Timanous.

Ed Barnard writes, "In modest retaliation for the scandalous use to which my name was put in your yellow journal of March, please be advised that, starting with September 1, 1937, my price goes up $1,000 per school term until the expiration of our contract." The WOHELO BIRD glows with pride at the thought of being called a yellow journal, and hopes it will increase its circulation. Spare copies of the March issue can be had from our office for $200.00 each, while they last.

George Burroughs is at school in Los Angeles, California.

Fairfield Pope Day is in Cambridge, Mass., but will live in Short Hills, N. J., after June first.

Mush Durston is a salesman for the Smith Typewriter Co. in Syracuse.

Julian Gibbs is at Albany Academy in Albany.

George Langdon returned to the Bedford-Rippowam School on April 13th, after a month in Jamaica.

Bud Lewis hopes to spend a day or two at camp this summer.

Marty Quirk and his wife have a new house, at 90 West Front St., Red Bank, N. J.

Mutt Ray played for the All-Star East football team in the annual East-West charity game at San Francisco on New Year's day, and gave the usual excellent account of himself. He will be playing baseball again for Dartmouth this spring.

Warren W. Smith is attending the River-

Larry Whittemore and Benny Benson saw Bart and Lee in Deerfield recently, when they came down for a Williams freshman basketball game.

Little Wohelo News

Kimmy rides there, too, and has been doing some jumping.

There are lots of new campers entered for Little Wohelo. From Providence there are Anne Appleton, Meredith Murdock, Rosalind Shaw, Lydia Stone, Eleanor Richmond and Nancy MacColl. They are friends of all the other camp girls from Providence. Grace Mary Dain is glad that Lois Jane Hart, a friend from Peekskill, is coming. Theodora Reilly, who goes to Low-Heywood, where Fran Green teaches, is coming from Darien, Conn. Marcia and Pamela Capps and Sarah Clarke Noyes come from Montclair, N. J. Anne Williams from Cassanova, Va., is the sister of Betty Williams, who used to be at Little Wohelo. Silence Turnbull, of Aliquippa, Pa., comes originally from Warrenton and knows the Williams. From Fairlawn, N. J., comes Marie Devlin, whom many Little Woheloites met at the New York tea, where they also met Anne Goewey of Bronxville and Barbara Payne of Pleasantville, N. Y. Barbara Winn of Albany is a friend of Jo Faust and Ginny Lawson. Mary Ann Norton, of Newton Centre, Mass., met Little Woheloites at the Boston tea. Susan Rafalsky, of New York, is the daughter of a man whom Halsey used to know when he was a little boy.

The Albany Reunion

The Albany Reunion was a progressive party, starting with a wonderful buffet supper at the Greens for all of last summer's Albany campers. Besides Mr. and Mrs.

Green, Dr. and Mrs. Faust and Mr. and Mrs. Sniveley, there were Jean Adams, Jo Faust, Prissie Green, Dottie and Halsey Gulick, Marge Howard, Eleanor Kimmy, Jean and Lila Latham, Betty Lawson, Eleanor Murphy, Charlotte and June Robinson, Ginny Sniveley and Jan Stevens, all from Wohelo. From Timanous, there were Speck Green, Cliff Nickle, Cubby Sniveley and Lindsay Stevens.

After the supper, everyone went to the Blue Room of the First Presbyterian Church, where the rest of the parents and past and future campers saw the movies and talked about camp.

The Syracuse Reunion

Mrs. W. A. Smith and her four daughters, Muggins, Buster, Smitty and Nanette, gave a tea at their home on James Street on Tuesday, March 23rd. It was the first reunion in Syracuse for several years, and an awfully nice one. The following girls and parents were there: Frannie Cooper Ludwick, Peggy Drummond, Alice Durston, Jane Durston Smith, Betty Lee Edwards, Glad Edwards, Dottie and Halsey Gulick, Bobby Haight, Happy Hilts, Henrietta Hiscock, Jane Kincaid, Eleanor Larned, Betty Lewis Searl, Eugenie Lewis, Jean and Hollis Merrill, Mrs. E. W. Platt, Ann Raleigh and Mrs. Raleigh, Adele Sanford, Janet Smith Wyncoop, Marion and Judy Thompson and Babs Van Duyn.

Montclair

Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Ostgren and Bobby Ostgren had a tea on Easter Sunday for some of the Montclair people who were interested in camp. Besides the Ostgrens, the Strohm and Dottie and Halsey, there were the following girls now entered for camp, and their parents: Anne Beal, Helen Kingsley, Marian Moses and Betty Lou Schouler. Henry Symons, who came with his mother, is entered for Timanous.

Boston Tea Party

There were about a hundred campers, alumnae, parents and friends at the Boston tea, held on Saturday, April 3rd, at the Junior League.
