TIMANOUS SKIING WEEK-END

February 4, 5 and 6

All the Timanous boys, counselors and alumni are invited to attend the Winter Skiing Reunion which is to be held at Proctor Academy, Andover, New Hampshire, the first week-end in February.

The boys will meet at the North Station, Boston, on Friday afternoon, February 4th, at the 4.30 train which arrives at Andover, New Hampshire, in time for supper at Proctor and they will leave Andover on Sunday afternoon at 5.06, arriving at the North Station, Boston, at 7.40 p. m. The total charge for the week-end, including railroad fare, will be twelve dollars. A counselor will meet the boys at the gate at the North Station and bring them back again on Sunday.

An interesting program will be arranged, not only for those who are excellent skiers but also for the beginners and those who wish to watch the events.

Friday night will be spent in preparing equipment and listening to a talk on skiing from Mr. Roland W. Burbank, the Ski Instructor. Saturday morning the boys will have preliminary instruction in skiing in the immediate vicinity of school and in the afternoon various groups will try some of the local trails. As all types of skiing are available, these groups can be divided according to the ability of the boys. On Sunday there will be a Ski Meet with three separate divisions: one for beginners, another for intermediates, and another for advanced groups. Suitable prizes will be awarded for the winners of these events.

As there are a large number of Timanous boys in New England, it is hoped there will be an excellent attendance. The boys at Proctor Academy are looking forward to bending every effort to making the week-end an interesting one for all those who attend.

SEBAGO WOHELO NEWS

Mary Carol Ackerman is a day pupil at Rosemary Hall in Greenwich, Conn.

Baba Boyden writes that they have lots of picnics, where she shows her camp craft knowledge.

Sally Bullard has been riding several times, and misses "Sonny Boy" dreadfully.

Peg Carey is on the staff at Colby Junior College in New London, N. H.

Chambie runs the choir at Wellesley, and has been trying out Mul Boyden, Chottie and Peggy Walbridge.

M. El. Chamberlain is taking music lessons and nursing along a fast disappearing summer tan.

Jean Cushing helped with occupational therapy in a hospital for two weeks before school started. She is at Winsor again.

LITTLE WOHELO NEWS

Bob and Beebe, Baba and Mariella are at Vermont Academy, Saxtons River, Vt., where Bob has charge of the English Department. They like it tremendously. Bob's father died shortly after camp closed, and the little campers who remember Mr. Boyden on his visits to Little Wohelo will know what this loss has meant to Bob.

Bob and Beebe went to the Harvard-Dartmouth football game, leaving Baba for the day with Molly in Wellesley.

Jean Adams is at St. Agnes School in Albany.

FALL MONTHS AT CAMP

We are apt to think of camp as closing when the girls go home in August and remaining inactive until the next summer. As a matter of fact a great deal goes on during the other months in preparation for the eight weeks in July and August.

There has been more activity this fall than usual and when camp opens next summer there will be a number of conspicuous changes. In the first place, Barracks has been permanently removed and a new cabin has been built near the Bent Nail.

The swimming dock has been entirely rebuilt and the canoe-house has been moved away from the Lewa cabins and now runs parallel to the shore under the high Haeramai Rock.

All the cabins have been carefully checked and new posts and railings have been added where needed. Wokonahet, the Infirmary, and the Guest House have all been re-roofed. The Garage has a new runway and there is a new porch on both the lower and upper levels of the new Weaving House.

At Little Wohelo a new Canoe House is under construction and many minor repairs have been made to put the cabins in excellent condition. Some of the low places on the Playground are being filled in, so that water will not collect in them during wet days.

NEW BOATS FOR LITTLE WOHELO

A new and complete boat-building shop has been installed at Proctor Academy and the instructor of this work is Mr. Walter Rounds of South Casco. During the free periods he is building a fleet of small row-boats for Little Wohelo. These small boats are eight feet long and thirty-six inches wide and are on much the same lines as yacht dinghies.

It is very difficult to find adequate small boats which can be handled by younger children with the same degree of ease and efficiency as larger people handle the ordinary sized boats. The new eleven- and thirteen-foot canoes were a great boon to Little Wohelo last summer and as a result the girls showed far more interest in paddling and attained far more skill. The new small row-boats will help to bring the water equipment still closer to the needs of young children.

Halsey has become so interested in this work that he has been using much of his free time in building a boat himself. If it is used at camp next summer, it should be given a special name and made the Flagship of the Fleet.

IN MEMORIAM

James Hoyt, of McKeesport, Pa., died on board the liner Scythia on September 5th, the night before the ship docked in New York. He was on his way home from the Boy Scout Jamboree in Holland. His brother, Jack, was with him. Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt and their two daughters, Millicent and Ella Lou, were told of his death when they came to meet him.

Jim was an Eagle Scout, and had won a Bronze Palm and a Gold Palm.

The sympathy of all the Timanous boys who knew Jim, and the Wohelo girls who know Totty, goes to the Hoyts in their loss.

WOHELO REUNION AT PROCTOR

February 11, 12 and 13

Due to the lack of snow the Reunion Week-end was given up last year but now we are hoping for better luck. The week-end is planned for February 12th and 13th. Girls coming by train will leave Boston on the train leaving the North Station at four-thirty, Friday afternoon, and will arrive at the school in time for a seven o'clock dinner. They will return on the five o'clock train Sunday afternoon, arriving in Boston at seven-forty. The total charge for the week-end will be twelve dollars; this will include all the expenses at school and also the round-trip railroad ticket and chaperon from Boston.

Various festivities have already been planned. On Friday night, Mr. Roland Burbank will give a practical talk on skiing and will illustrate his talk with some interesting motion pictures.

On Saturday every type of skiing will be available, from lessons for the beginner on the gentle slopes near the school to the steep mountain trails for those who have had a great deal of experience. During the afternoon there will be a Ski Meet with one of our neighboring schools.

Saturday night there will be a dinner dance, followed by an entertainment and continuation of the dancing. Just before midnight a supper will be served.

On Sunday there will be a late breakfast and various groups will make short skiing trips. Dinner will be served about one o'clock and everyone will join for tea just before the train leaves.

It is hoped that a large number of girls will attend. If you don't ski, you can have great fun in joining the beginners. During the last Wohelo Week-end some of the beginners had a better time than any of the others. If you don't own skis, you can rent them at the North Station in Boston. If you don't care to ski, bring snowshoes or a toboggan, or just come and enjoy watching the others.

WOHELO CHAIRS

As anyone can see, from the imposing list of births in this issue, the Wohelo alumnae are rapidly getting into their stride. We've never announced so many births before. It has caught us quite unprepared, and the Wohelo chairs have given out. The Mexican who makes them is flooded by our ever-increasing demand, and feels that what started out to be a pleasant little business has turned

TIMANOUS NEWS

Lee and Skipper spent the Labor Day week-end visiting Gus Gutterson and his family at Watch Hill, R. I. Skipper's Junior Varsity soccer team has won its first four games this fall.

Doc Arnold and Allen Sperry have been riding quite a bit since camp closed.

Buck Bedford is playing quarterback on the U. of Vermont football team.

Bob Bensen is a junior at Deerfield Academy and on the junior varsity soccer team.

Bobby Breed went to Cape Cod after camp closed. Tommy Findley was there with the Breeds for a week or so.

Dave Brown spent two weeks in bed in July and three in September. He says he'll try to have a better report to make next time.
